

Time Machine® Enterprise Management Console (TMEMC)

Your Centralized Control Center for the Whole Enterprise

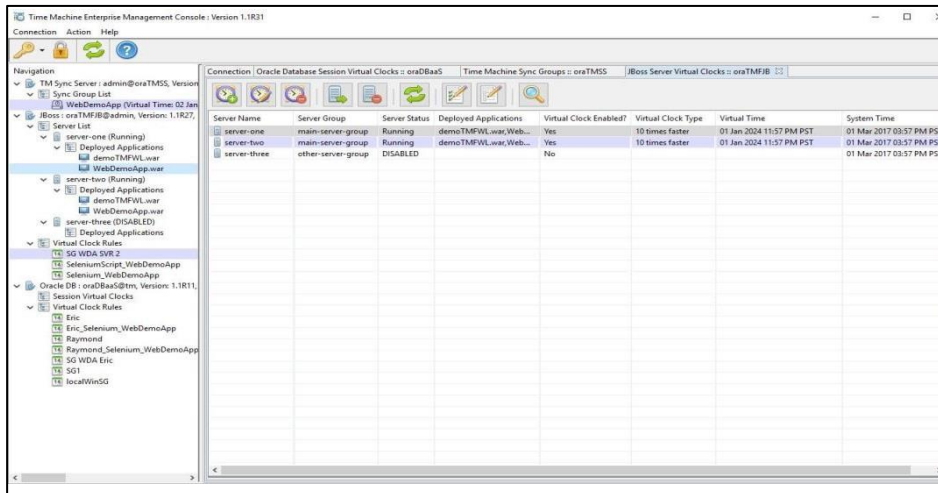

Introducing the Time Machine Enterprise Management Console

Time Machine Management Console (TMEMC) enables users to manage and monitor virtual time for complex distributed applications and testing environments easily and effectively from a single interface.

With TMEMC, you can improve the quality and convenience of complex application testing by providing a single virtual time management and configuration solution. You can configure, manage and monitor virtual time for different distributed application components from a single Time Machine Management Console.

TMEMC allows customers to configure virtual time and easily apply it to specific components of applications. Depending on what approach you prefer in your environment, you can use TMEMC either as a Java-based application (that can run centrally on one of the systems in your environment, and be accessed either directly from the system itself, or via RDP), or a browser-based application (accessible from any of the systems with network connectivity to the environment, via any web browser, even from your mobile devices).
